PREFATORY NOTE.

THE contents of this volume have been condensed into the smallest possible space in the belief that they will thus prove of most practical service to the readers for whom the work is designed. The compiler has to acknowledge assistance in his task from many quarters—most particularly are his thanks due to Mr. J. C. Horobin, M.A., Secretary of the Press Committee for much valuable aid, and to the members of the Committee for their careful revision of the proofs. The officials at the N. U. T. headquarters have also helped to lighten greatly the labours of compilation. Last, but not least, thanks are due to Messrs. Macmillan & Bowes for kind permission to use the beautiful block of St. John's Gateway from Messrs. Atkinson & Clark's Cambridge Described and Illustrated, and Mr. J. W. Clark's Concise Guide to Cambridge, which ornaments the cover of this volume, and to the proprietors of the Schoolmaster for the loan of several illustrations.

Decorative Art Exhibition.

As an addition to the Publishers' Exhibition there is to be a Decorative Art Exhibition to which at time of going to press the following firms have promised to loan exhibits :—

Messrs. E. Arnold, E. J. Arnold, Art for Schools Association, Blackie, Cassell, Graves and Co., W. and A. K. Johnston,

A. Johnson, Newmann, Photochrome Co., Doulton, Belgium
E. S. Association, Bell, G. Philip & Son, Gladwell & Co.,
and Mr. Horobin.

Messrs. Gill have undertaken to print the catalogue for the Sub-Committee which is composed of the officers of the Conference Committee, Mr. Buck, Mr. Jones (Chairman) and Mr. Horobin (Secretary). This new venture bids fair to be of great use as well as pleasure, as teachers and managers will be able to see what can be done at reasonable cost to beautify their schools with productions of permanent aesthetic value. Mr. Horobin and the Committee are to be congratulated on their attempt to meet a long-felt want, and Mr. R. S. Wood, of Bolton, who has been an advocate for this sort of exhibition for some years, will be pleased to find his labour has not been in vain.

No part of school furnishing at the present time is so neglected as the Art side, and though money is required not so much is needed as some managers think. If this new venture inaugurates a crusade to rid schools of the garish advertisements and ephemeral Christmas number productions in favour of really beautiful form and colour, the children will have much to thank Cambridge for.

Excursions.

The Excursion Committee have arranged for Excursions to the following places of interest in the neighbourhood :—

(1) Hatfield (on G.N.R. main line to London). The seat of the Marquis of Salisbury. Hatfield House is interesting apart from its stately splendour, through associations with the Tudors and the Stuarts. The mansion was built in 1611; remains of the older palace where Queen Elizabeth was a semi-prisoner at the time of her accession, however, exist. Charles I. was also for a short time a prisoner at Hatfield. In the mansion are valuable collections of family portraits and historical MSS.

(2) Woburn (Station, Woburn Sands, on L.N.W.R. line to Bletchley). Woburn Abbey, the seat of the Duke of Bedford, who has promised to entertain a party not exceeding 200, is between 3 and 4 miles from the railway station. The house, built in the eighteenth century, on the site of a Cistercian Abbey contains many interesting art treasures. The deer-park and pleasure grounds are very fine.

(3) Peterborough (on G.E.R. main line). The chief feature of interest here is of course the Cathedral, one of the most important Norman Churches in England. The choir dates from the middle of the twelfth century and there are other extensive remains of the monastery which formerly occupied the site. The ruins of Crowland Abbey are in the neighbourhood.

(4) Ely (G.E.R.), a small city fifteen miles from Cambridge on the Ouse. The only attraction is the magnificent Cathedral, which has been described as "one of the very largest and most imposing, one of the most individual, and distinctly the most varied, in England."

(N.B.—For Train Service to above places, see RAILWAY ARRANGEMENTS.)

The University Reception Committee is arranging for parties to be conducted over various Colleges. See notices in the Reception Room.

Mr. J. Mullett, M.A., has also organized a trip to Newmarket (by cycle, break, or train) for Saturday, April 1st.

GUIDE TO CAMBRIDGE.

THE following pages do not pretend to offer even a list of everything in Cambridge that is worth seeing ; much less to attempt description of the architecture or provide historical or archaeological information about the University and colleges. The object of the writer is simply to indicate to the visitor who is compelled to satisfy his sight-seeing propensities within a very limited time how he should set to work so as to visit the places of most interest within four convenient and not exhausting walks. No one should miss the buildings, &c., in the first three walks. The fourth, it will be noticed, deals rather with natural features and modern foundations, and will perhaps not be thought necessary in some cases.

It should be understood that the well-conducted and decently-dressed visitor in Cambridge, provided that he does not smoke, has no dog with him, and keeps off the grass, is in all cases permitted to enter the College gateways and walk round the Courts without any question or interference on the part of the gate porter. Application to the porter will secure information on the most interesting features of the college, and this official is generally ready to produce the chapel key and otherwise facilitate the visitor's explorations.

FIRST WALK.

Leaving the Guildhall, the visitor should turn to the right and then again take the first turning to the right skirting the new Municipal Buildings, and, turning again to the right, he will find himself between the Corn Exchange (left) and the Free Library. In the former building many of the University examinations are held; the handsome and well-ventilated reading-room of the latter institution is well worth a visit. Daily, weekly, and monthly publications are to be found in abundance, well and conveniently arranged. Proceeding past the Free Library and keeping straight on,

ST. BENEDICT'S CHURCH

will be passed on the left side of Bene't Street—the church being also generally known by this abbreviated name. This building is famous as the oldest in the town, the tower dating back to Saxon times, and being regarded as one of the best examples of pre-Norman architecture to be found in the country. The rest of the structure has, however, been rebuilt at a later period. The church at one time served as a chapel to Corpus Christi College, then known as Bene't Hall. Continuing his road the visitor emerges into Trumpington Street, opposite the Bull Hotel. The red-brick building on the further side of the hotel is St. Catharine's College, founded in the fifteenth century. Part of it occupies the site of the famous Carrier Hobson's stables. It presents no special features of interest. On the other side of the hotel is founded by King Henry VI. in 1440. The Chapel (open 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.) not finished till many years later, is all that is left of the old building, and constitutes one of the chief glories of Cambridge. The wonderful series of stained glass windows executed in the sixteenth century and exhibiting in the lower tiers incidents of New Testament history, and in the upper incidents of Old Testament history, selected as types of the pictures represented below, are well worth study. The series of New Testament pictures begins in the west window on the north side of the chapel. The organ-screen, built while Anne Boleyn was Queen, is noticeable as bearing her royal monogram A.R., not elsewhere to be found. A fine view of the neighbourhood is obtainable from the roof, for the ascent to which a small payment is made. The remaining buildings of King's belong to the last two centuries, the stone screen and gateway facing Trumpington Street, dating only from 1824. Returning through this the visitor will next pass on his left.

INTERIOR OF KING'S COLLEGE CHAPEL.

KING'S COLLEGE,

THE UNIVERSITY LIBRARY,

standing back in a quadrangle, and containing about half a million printed books, besides a number of valuable manuscripts. There are only two larger libraries in the kingdom. The ordinary visitor will not find much beyond the pictures on the staircase to repay a cursory inspection of the interior, and the enthusiastic student accompanied by a guide familiar with the library will be dissatisfied with such a passing glimpse of its treasures as he can get in one visit. Adjoining the Library is an early eighteenth century building in the Corinthian style in which the graduation ceremonials and other great public functions of the University are held. It contains two celebrated statues—one by Nollekens of William Pitt, the other by Rysbrack of Charles, Duke of Somerset, who was Chancellor of the University at the time of the building. Passing down Senate House Passage along the north side of the Senate House, the visitor will find himself opposite the gateway of

THE SENATE HOUSE,

TRINITY HALL,

founded in the fourteenth century and retaining many of its old buildings, although in a modernised form. This is the college most frequented by law students—and still preserves in its library the old book cases with iron bars to which in early times the precious volumes used to be chained while consulted by readers. It is spoken of in University parlance as "the Hall." Leaving Trinity Hall and turning to the right

CLARE COLLEGE

is reached (on the same side of the street). The beautiful buildings of this college belong to the Jacobean period. The visitor will do well to pass straight through to the bridge whence a beautiful view of the "Backs" is obtainable. Apart from its architectural features there is little to notice in this College. On leaving it, ~~cross~~ the road and enter the

WOODWARDIAN MUSEUM OF GEOLOGY

(open from 10 to 4) which contains an extensive collection of fossils and other specimens arranged in chronological order so as to illustrate the development of the crust of the earth and the various forms of animal life that have at different periods existed upon it. This museum is shortly to be removed to new buildings to be erected in Downing Street. Returning to King's Parade by Senate House Passage the visitor passes on the left the modern south part of

GONVILLE AND CAIUS COLLEGE,

always described as "Keys." The "Gate of Honour" facing the Passage and "the Gate of Virtue" inside the Court are especially to be noted here. They were originally supplemented by the "Gate of Humility," standing where the present entrance to the College is in Trinity Street and the series typified the path of the student through the College—the Gate of Honour leading out opposite the Schools where the University crowned his career with a degree. The Church facing the east front of Caius is St. Michael's, a decorated building restored by Scott. The red brick building with barred windows adjoining, forms an extension of Caius College, popularly known as "Newgate." Passing this and proceeding along the narrow Trinity Street, the visitor will come to

GATE OF HONOUR. CAIUS COLLEGE.

TRINITY COLLEGE,

entered through the beautiful King's Gateway, standing back on the left side of the street. This college, formed by Henry VIII. in 1546 (his statue is noticeable over the entrance) by the amalgamation of several previously existing foundations, is the largest in England—and inside the Great Court on which the gateway opens it is said that the whole of "Tom" quadrangle, Christ Church, could be set down. Sir Isaac Newton was a member of this College and occupied the rooms on the first floor next to the gateway on the right as one enters; the rooms beneath this set were occupied much later by the novelist Thackeray. The chapel in this court is well worth a visit. In the antechapel the statue of Newton by Roubiliac is especially to be noticed. The tombs of the great scholars Bentley, Porson, and Whewell are also to be seen. Passing round the Great Court and between the Hall and the Kitchen (opposite the King's Gateway) Neville's Court, also known as the Cloister Court, is reached. The handsome building on the opposite side of this is the Library, which is open from two to three daily, and not to be neglected. It was designed by Wren, who was also responsible for the arrangement of the book cases. Thorwaldsen's statue of Byron at the extreme end of the building has an interesting history. It was commissioned by admirers of the poet in the hope that it would find a place in Westminster Abbey, but two Deans refused to admit it there, and after lying twelve years in the vaults of the Custom House it was presented by the subscribers to the poet's old college. Among the other treasures exhibited in the Library are several manuscripts of the works of Milton, Thackeray, and Tennyson, an old telescope supposed to have been used by Newton, and a number of ancient illuminated manuscripts. Opening out of Neville's Court is a third court—King's Court—from which access is obtained to the bridge and avenue of limes celebrated by Tennyson in In Memoriam.

Returning along Trinity Street the way he came, the visitor, by turning to the left down Rose Crescent, will find himself in the Market Place and immediately opposite the Guildhall.

SECOND WALK.

Turning to the right on leaving the Guildhall and keeping straight on the visitor will pass through Petty Cury, a narrow street which has been known by this name since the reign of Edward III., having been originally so designated probably from the number of houses of refreshment it contained. At the corner is the new Post Office, and facing it, surmounted by a clock, is Foster's Bank. Turning to the right into St. Andrew's Street, the modern Church of St. Andrew the Great is on the right-hand and opposite it the gateway of

CHRIST'S COLLEGE,

founded in the beginning of the sixteenth century by Lady Margaret Beaufort, mother of Henry VII., and also foundress of St. John's College. Her portrait is to be seen in the Hall opposite the gateway, together with portraits of Milton and Darwin, two distinguished members of the College. The garden which is entered from the Second Court, is the most notable feature of this College, the buildings possessing no particular interest. The famous mulberry-tree here, alleged to have been planted by Milton, is a great attraction. Leaving the College by the main gateway turn to the left and again to the left along Christ's Lane leading to an open space called Christ's Pieces. The path to the left under the College garden wall is known as "Milton's Walk." Passing down this, crossing King Street and going through Manor Street the visitor will emerge in Jesus Lane nearly opposite the gate of

JESUS COLLEGE.

This foundation was established in 1497 by Bishop Alcock of Ely, on the site of the suppressed nunnery of St. Rhadegund. Although it is not the only instance in Cambridge of a College erected on the site and ruins of a monastic house, Jesus College has the peculiar interest of having retained and adapted part of the original buildings. The Chapel for instance, carefully restored during the latter half of this century, and the Hall and Kitchen, served the same purposes for the Benedictine nuns that they now serve for the members of the College. The entrance to the Chapter House (in the Cloister) was only recently recovered from the plaster with which it had been obscured. The founder's rebus, a cock standing on a globe, will be found on various parts of the building. Facing the College in Jesus Lane is All Saints' Church, otherwise known as "St. Opposite's," removed in the sixties from a site in St. John's Street, and having in its vestry a sixteenth century book of sermons with the original chain by which it was once attached to the reading-desk. Proceeding along Jesus Lane to the left after leaving the College, open spaces known as Butt's Green and Midsummer Common are found on the left. Crossing these by the main road, Victoria Avenue, and over Victoria Bridge, which spans the river Cam at the end of the Avenue, the headquarters of boating are reached. Above and below the bridge stand

THE BOAT HOUSES

of the Colleges, the University, and the boat-builders. The visitor wishing to hire a boat may obtain one from Logan's, Winter's, Foster's, or Strange's boat-houses. The University Boat House known as the Goldie, because erected as a memorial to the famous oar of that name, is the sixth building below the bridge. If the visitor decides to walk down the river he should go along the towing-path on the side opposite the boat houses as far as the Pike and Eel, and cross in the ferry or "grind" to the opposite side. About here are the finishing posts for the boats in the bumping races. Continuing along the towing-path to Ditton Corner, the meadow in front of the church on the opposite side is to be noticed. This is where the cousins and aunts assemble to watch the boats at the Lent and May races. Supposing the walk along the towing-path is not taken, the visitor should turn to the left along the Chesterton Road and Lane (a continuation of it), and passing Jesus Lock and Bridge on the left, and a little further on the artificial mound where a Norman Castle, occasionally occupied by the kings, once stood on the right, he will come to four cross roads, which probably mark the centre of the old Roman town.

The modern building on the right-hand corner is St. Giles' Church. The road passing its west front leads up to the tiny church of St. Peter (left), and the Shire Hall (right), and is continued as the Huntingdon Road to Girton College, a walk of between two and three miles, not presenting any points of interest. The portress will, however, show visitors who feel inclined to undertake it the chief features in the College buildings, no part of which dates back much more than a quarter of a century. The street facing Chesterton Lane leads round the Backs, which will be described later. A short distance along it is to be seen (in the stable-yard of a public-house on the left) a dilapidated twelfth-century manor house, now used as a barn, and known as the School of Pythagoras. This, traditio asserts, was one of the first teaching places of the infant University. Opposite this to the right is the Madingley Road, about three-quarters of a mile along which is the University Observatory, to which visitors accompanied by a member of the University are admitted daily between 12.30 and 1.30—but the visit should not now be made. Returning along Northampton Street to the cross roads the turning to the right should be taken. A short distance down on the left-hand side of the street is a sixteenth-century foundation with a gateway by Wren, associated with the memory of Samuel Pepys by the Pepysian Building in the Second Court, towards the erection of which he contributed, and where his library in its original bookcases is deposited. Here, too, is the cipher manuscript of the immortal diary. These treasures can, however, only be inspected by persons accompanied by a Fellow of the College. Leaving Magdalene and continuing the road into the town the visitor crosses the Great Bridge over the Cam—obtaining on the right a view of the back of St. John's College, and passes on the left St. Clement's Church. The motto Deum Cole on the west front commemorates the Rev. Wm. Cole, the antiquary, who bequeathed the funds for the erection of the tower. Still further along on the same side of the road is the

an eleventh-century structure, notable as being the oldest of the four round churches still left in England. The interior, although it has suffered by restoration, is worth inspection. Behind this church lie the buildings of the

which besides being the great Debating Society of the University, caters in its reading, smoking and dining rooms, and its excellent library for the club instincts of the undergraduate at large—no formalities of election or blackballing having to be dreaded by the candidate for membership.

Opposite the Round Church is the opening of St. John's Street. Here on the right is St. John's College Chapel, and opposite it a red-brick building where some University lectures are delivered, known as the Selwyn Divinity School, because the cost of its erection was largely borne by the Rev. W. Selwyn, for twenty years Lady Margaret Professor of Divinity. The adjoining open space, with a memorial cross in the centre, marks the original site of All Saints' Church. In the graveyard here the poet Kirke White was buried. The red-brick gateway opposite is that of

ST. JOHN'S COLLEGE,

founded by Henry VII.'s mother, Lady Margaret Beaufort, in 1511. This entrance is, according to Mr. J. W. Clark, the antiquary, the "most beautiful of all the Cambridge gateway-towers"; the Lancastrian rose, the Tudor portcullis, the Beaufort antelopes, and the marguerite, the name-flower of the foundress are chief features in its ornamentation. The windows and statues in the Chapel and the statue of Lady Margaret over the gateway between the first and second courts are to be noticed,—as well as the pictures in the Hall,—these including Wordsworth, Dr. B. H. Kennedy, and the foundress. The Gallery in the second court, now used as Fellows' Combination Room is a unique survival—here also are to be found a number of portraits of St. John's worthies. The Third Court opens from the Second, and from this the Bridge, known as the "Bridge of Sighs," leads to the New Court, a nineteenth century structure. On leaving St. John's College the visitor may turn to the left, cross the street and passing through the extension of Trinity, known as Whewell's Buildings, adjoining the site of All Saints' Church, he will emerge in Sidney Street and almost opposite to the right is founded by Lady Frances Sidney Sussex towards the end of the sixteenth century, the older buildings being contemporary with the foundation. A famous portrait of Oliver-Cromwell, who was a student here, is to be seen in the Hall, together with a painting of the foundress. This College has also some pleasant gardens, skirting Jesus Lane. On the right-hand side of the street after the College has been left (turn left) is Market Passage in which the Conservative Club is situated, and a little further on Market Street with Holy Trinity Church at the corner,—the next turning to the right is Petty Cury which will bring the visitor back direct to the Guildhall.

ST. JOHN'S COLLEGE BRIDGE.

SIDNEY SUSSEX COLLEGE,

THIRD WALK.

Turning to the left from the Guildhall and again to the left along Peas Hill the visitor passes on the right St. Edward's Church, an ancient building in which the reformers Bilney, Barnes, and Latimer preached some of their most famous sermons. To the right is Bene't Street and the first turning to the left out of this is Free School Lane. The first gateway on the left here is that of the Cavendish Laboratory of Experimental Physics, and behind and adjoining this are the Botanical, Mechanical, Zoological, Anatomical, Physiological, Pathological, and Chemical Museum. Botolph Lane (to the right at the end of Free School Lane) leads into Trumpington Street, opposite the University Printing Press, a building with a tower, not presenting the ordinary appearance of a printing office, and nick-named from this "The Freshmen's Church." From this issue the well-known Pitt Press school books as well as a number of other learned works. Visitors must be accompanied by a member of the Senate. On the right at the corner of Botolph Lane and Trumpington Street is St. Botolph's Church, an ancient structure with a modern chancel not offering much of interest to the ordinary visitor, and adjoining the church is a foundation dating from the middle of the fourteenth century, to which period the older buildings of the college (in the Old Court) also belong. The portion fronting the street is a modern erection. The ancient MSS. collected by Archbishop Parker in the Library, and the collection of coins, gems, rings, &c., bequeathed to the college by the Rev. S. S. Lewis are objects of interest here. Crossing the road opposite the college and passing down Silver Street by the side of the Pitt Press to the corner of Queens' Lane,

QUEENS' COLLEGE

is reached. This was originally founded under the auspices of Henry VI.'s Queen, Margaret of Anjou in 1447, and refounded by his successor's Queen, Elizabeth Woodville, eighteen years later. The buildings are mainly co-eval with the foundation. Over the entrance to the old Chapel in the principal court there is a famous sun-dial, ascribed without authority to Sir Isaac Newton. Out of the principal court leads the Cloister Court, and this again gives into the Pump Court with the Erasmus Tower, in which, according to tradition, this scholar lodged from 1511 to 1513. The new chapel is in the Walnut Tree Court, opening from the principal court. Returning along Silver Street to Trumpington Street, and passing the front of the University Press,

PEMBROKE COLLEGE

is to be seen on the opposite side of the street. This was founded in the fourteenth century by the Countess of Pembroke, but has since been almost entirely rebuilt,—the gateway being among the few remaining portions of the old buildings. The chapel was designed by Sir Christopher

FITZWILLIAM MUSEUM.

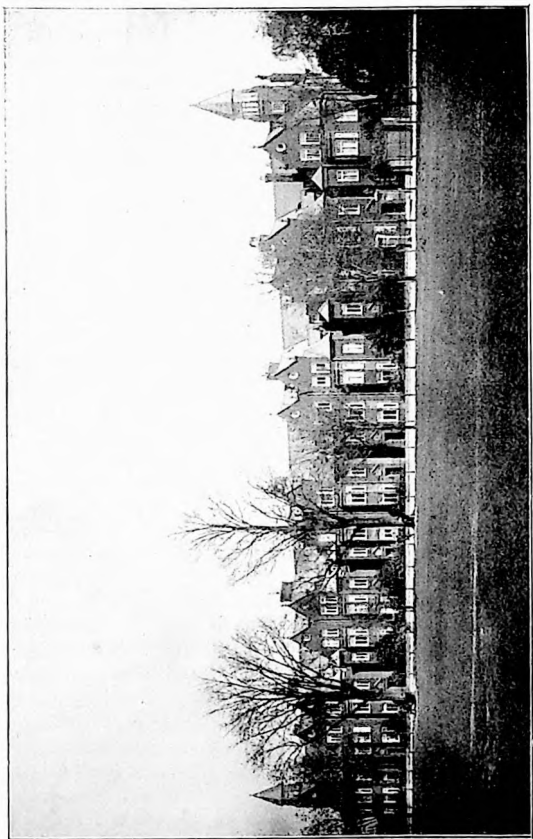

Wren and enlarged by Sir Gilbert Scott, the more modern buildings are by Waterhouse. The poets Spenser and Gray, and William Pitt were members of this college—busts of the two latter are to be seen in the Hall. The building with a lofty spire opposite Pembroke College is Emmanuel Congregational Church, a little further on is the Church of St. Mary the Less. Part of its tower dates from the twelfth century, the remainder of the building from the fourteenth. In St. Mary's Lane, running between these two places of worship, are the Archaeological Museums—including the Museum of General and Local Archaeology and Ethnology and the Fitzwilliam Museum of Classical Archaeology (open 10-4). Adjoining the church of St. Mary the Less is

ST. PETER'S COLLEGE,

or Peterhouse, the oldest college in the University, founded by Hugh de Balsham, Bishop of Ely, in 1281, and retaining traces of the original structure. The painted glass windows in the chapel, executed by Professor Aimmüller, of Munich, are very much admired; the Hall and Combination Rooms contain some handsome stained glass windows by W. Morris and Burne-Jones. The classical building further along Trumpington Street is

THE FITZWILLIAM MUSEUM

and Picture Galleries (open 10—4; except on Fridays, when only members of the University and their friends are admitted). In the entrance hall there is a marble statue of H.R.H. the Prince Consort, and, at the top of the staircase, a number of interesting busts and Flaxman's Shield of BURLINGTON HOUSE.

Achilles. The visitor should commence his tour of the galleries to the left ; in the first room the Turner drawings presented by Mr. Ruskin are especially to be noticed. The chief pictures of the original collection, including examples of Rembrandt, Titian and Paul Veronese, are in the third gallery ; the fourth contains the English and modern pictures, among them some notable portraits. Underneath the picture galleries there are rooms containing a collection of antique statuary, coins, weapons, bronzes, and other relics. The large building nearly opposite the Fitzwilliam Museum is Addenbrooke's Hospital ; immediately opposite is Fitzwilliam Street, after passing down which the visitor should enter the grounds of and, turning to the right when the main avenue is reached, and then to the left, he will emerge in Regent Street. Here, turning to the left, he will find, close by the University Arms Hotel, the entrance to Parker's Piece, where cricket and football matches are played. The red brick building fronting the Piece (to the right) is Burlington House, the resident headquarters of University Correspondence College. Behind this are Fenner's Cricket Ground and the new buildings of the Cambridge Training College for Women Teachers. The diagonal path across the Piece will bring visitors in a few minutes to the Technical Institute in the East Road. The visitors proceeding along Regent Street and its continuation, St. Andrew's Street, will next pass on the right the handsome New Theatre. The building adjoining the Police Station on the other side of the road is the Spinning House, formerly used as a house of correction for disorderly women under an ancient University jurisdiction.

only discontinued a few years ago. In the Baptist Chapel adjoining, the Rev. Robert Hall, the famous orator, once ministered. At the ancient tavern close by, now known as the "Old, Casted Hotel," tradition has it that Oliver Cromwell used to lodge on his journeys between Huntingdon and London—his memory is still associated with a room on the first floor.

EMMANUEL COLLEGE,

almost opposite, is an Elizabethan foundation, but the present buildings were erected in the eighteenth century. Harvard, the founder of the great college of this name in the United States, was an Emmanuel man, and copied his Alma Mater in his own foundation. In the Master's Gallery are some fine pictures by Romney, Lely, and Gainsborough. Continuing in the same direction after leaving the college, and passing on the right a high red brick house occupied by the Cambridge and County Liberal Club, and Christ's College the visitor will reach the Guildhall by turning to the left along Petty Cury.

FOURTH WALK.

GREAT ST. MARY'S CHURCH,

the east end of which fronts the Market Place, was built in the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries by subscriptions raised by the University authorities. Here the University sermon is preached each Sunday afternoon, and there are also special University services held on other occasions. It also serves as a parish church, and all distances in Cambridge are measured from its west door. The windows are mainly memorials of distinguished University men. From this tower "curfew" is tolled nightly from nine to quarter-past, the ringing ending with a number of separate strokes corresponding with the day of the month. The visitor should now go along Trinity Street and passing through Trinity gateway and the College courts, pause on the bridge, from which he will get a good view of one of the most attractive features of Cambridge,

THE COLLEGE "BACKS."

The buildings of St. John's College are to be seen on the right; on the left are Garrett Hostel Bridge and Clare Bridge. Continuing down the avenue and passing through the iron gates the visitor may, by turning to the right and again to the left along the Madingley Road, passing the Presbyterian College on the right, reach the University Observatory. On the present occasion, however, he is advised to turn to the left and then to the right into the new road called Sidgwick Avenue. A short distance along this to the left is Ridley Hall, and beyond this the extensive buildings and grounds of

UNIVERSITY CHURCH (GREAT ST. MARY'S).

NEWNHAM COLLEGE,

while on the opposite side of Sidgwick Avenue is Selwyn College, having its frontage on Grange Road. Returning along the Avenue and turning to the right the visitor reaches a watermill. Crossing by the bridge here and pursuing the footpath across Sheep's Green (where are the Town Bathing Sheds) and Coe Fen Lane he will emerge in the Trumpington Road opposite Hobson's Conduit, erected in memory of the carrier of "Hobson's choice" fame, and originally standing in the market-place. Opposite, with some of the buildings skirting Coc Fen Lane, is the Ley School, a Wesleyan Methodist foundation established on public school lines. A short way down Bateman

HOMERTON NEW COLLEGE.

Street (across the third bridge on the left), is the entrance to the

BOTANIC GARDEN

(open from 8 to 6). The plant houses contain many rare and beautiful specimens of tropical flowers and ferns. The visitor may leave the Garden by the gateway leading into Trumpington Road, and turning to the left, pass through a carriage gateway into Brooklands Avenue, a magnificent avenue of elms leading to the Hills Road. A short way across the railway bridge to the right is Homerton New College. The road to the left is a continuation of St.

Andrew's and Regent Streets leading straight into the town. The red brick church with a clock-tower on the right is S. Paul's. On the left will be particularly noticed the Roman Catholic Church of Our Lady and the English Martyrs, built at great expense by Mrs. Lyne Stephens a few years since, and presenting a remarkably handsome appearance both within and without. The modern building nearly opposite is the Perse Grammar School for Boys.

CAMBRIDGE SERIES FOR SCHOOLS & TRAINING COLLEGES

General Editor—W. H. WOODWARD, of Christ Church, Oxford, Principal of University (Day) Training College, Liverpool, and Lecturer on Education in Victoria University.

School Guardian.—"The object of this series is fully attained in the above four volumes ('Caesar, De Bello Gallico, III. and IV.,' 'Vergil, Aeneid XI.,' and 'Xenophon's Anabasis, Book IV.').—viz., the preparation of exact and scholarly, and at the same time simple, text-books. The University Press are to be congratulated upon having secured as editors such eminent scholars; their names are a guarantee of their work. We are quite sure that the students preparing for the Queen's Scholarship and Certificate Examinations will not be the only students who will find these text-books of value; they will find their way into numberless preparatory schools and lower forms of public schools; they deal so thoroughly and clearly with the subject in each case that nothing better could be desired by master or pupil. Among others, there is this immense advantage: each volume is its own note-book and dictionary; the student, however elementary his knowledge, needs only the book in hand and a simple grammar."

Geometry for Young Beginners. An Introduction to Theoretical and Practical Geometry. By F. W. SANDERSON, M.A., Headmaster of Oundle School. 1s. 6d.

Gray.—Ode on the Spring and the Bard. Edited, with Introduction and Notes, by D. C. TOVEY, M.A. 8d.

Macaulay.—Essays on Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress.

Edited, with Introduction and Notes, by A. D. INNES, M.A. 1s.

School World.—"A little book with a masterly introduction."

Schoolmaster.—"We have never seen a more concise and useful hand-book for students."

Milton.—Lycidas and Comus. Edited with Introduction, Notes, and Glossary, by A. W. VERRY, M.A. 2s.

Guardian.—"One of the best books that could be devised for higher forms in secondary schools and for training college students."

Educational Times.—"We can heartily recommend the book."

Bookman.—"Much of the auxiliary matter here is recast from the Pitt Press edition. It is none the less admirable on that account, and includes all that is required by the student."

Xenophon.—Anabasis II., III., and IV. Edited, with Notes and Vocabulary, by G. M. EDWARDS, M.A., Fellow and Classical Lecturer of Sidney Sussex College, Cambridge. 1s. 6d. each.

Cicero.—In Catilinam I. Edited, with Introduction, Notes, and Vocabulary, by J. H. FLATHER, M.A. 1s. 6d.

School Guardian.—"The simplicity and usefulness of this little volume are wonderful. It is meant for students who have had little experience in reading Latin, and who have not access to books of reference. In itself, therefore, it should be complete, and it is."

Vergil.—Aeneid I., IX., and XII. Edited, with Introduction, Notes, and Vocabulary, by A. SINGWICK, M.A. 1s. 6d. each.

School Guardian.—"For a small edition, this is one of the most compact and complete possible. We recommend it to all students who want to read Vergil for the first time, and to read it well."

Caesar.—De Bello Gallico. Books I. (1 to 29), II., III., and IV. With Introduction, Notes, and Vocabulary, by E. S. SHUCKERGHAN, M.A. 1s. 6d. each.

Other Volumes in preparation. Full Prospectus on application.

CUSACK'S LEAD PENCIL COPY BOOKS FOR INFANT SCHOOLS.

Complete Series in 4 Books.

The objections to slates and slate pencils are many :—

- 1.—It is impossible to hold the slate pencil as the pen should be held in writing : hence infants contract bad habits difficult to eradicate afterwards.
- 2.—The noise of the pencil on the slate is unpleasant, and irritating to many.
- 3.—As the copies are all rubbed out, there can be no permanent record of the child's work or progress.
- 4.—The means adopted in many cases for cleaning the slate is an effective cause of the spread of infectious disease among children.

These and many other objections are at once obviated by the use of Paper and Lead Pencil.

In the above series of Copy Books, besides the headlines being given in a bold style, the whole page is outlined with the given copy.

The very low price quoted, only Eightpence per doz. (8d.), should bring them within the reach of all Schools.

Specimen set (free) will be sent to the Head Teacher of any Infant School.

APPROVED SCHOOL BOOKS.

BY DR. CORNWELL, F.R.G.S.

"We are qualified by ample trial of the books in our own classes to speak to their great efficiency and value. We have never known so much interest evinced, or so much progress made, as since we have employed these as our school-books."—Educational Times.

A School Geography. 87th Edition, 3s. 6d.; or, with 30 Maps on Steel, 5s. 6d.

"Very superior to the common run of such books. It contains a good deal of useful matter of a more practical kind than usual, which the exercises are likely to impress on the mind more deeply than by the parrot system."—Athenæum.

A School Atlas. Consisting of 30 small Maps. A companion Atlas to the Author's "School Geography." 2s. 6d., or 1s. colored.

Geography for Beginners. 67th Edition, 1s.; or with 48 pp. of Questions, 1s. 4d. QUESTIONS, 6d.

"A very useful series of educational works, of which Dr. Cornwell is either author or editor. It ("The Geography for Beginners") is an admirable introduction. There is a vast difficulty in writing a good elementary book, and Dr. Cornwell has shown himself possessed of that rare combination of faculties which is required for the task."—John Bull.

Allen and Cornwell's School Grammar. 6th Edition. 2s. red leather; or 1s. 6d. cloth.

"The excellence of the Grammar published by the late Dr. Allen and Dr. Cornwell makes us almost despair of witnessing any decided improvement in this department."—Athenæum.

Grammar for Beginners. An Introduction to Allen and Cornwell's "School Grammar." 87th Edition. 1s. cloth; 6d. sewed.

"This simple Introduction is as good a book as can be used."—Spectator.

The Young Composer. Progressive Exercises in English Composition. 48th Edition. 1s. 6d. KEY, 3s.

"The plan of the work is very superior. We are persuaded this work will be found valuable to the intelligent instructor."—Westminster Review.

Spelling for Beginners. A Method of Teaching Reading and Spelling at the same time. 4th Edition. 1s.

Poetry for Beginners. A Selection of Short and Easy Poems for Reading and Recitation. 13th Edition. 1s.

A Science of Arithmetic. A Systematic Course of Numerical Reasoning and Computations: with very numerous Exercises. By JAMES CORNWELL, Ph.D., and Sir J. G. FITCH, LL.D. 20th Edition. 4s. 6d.

"The best work on arithmetic which has yet appeared. It is both scientific and practical in the best and fullest sense."—London Quarterly.

Key to Science of Arithmetic. With the Method of Solution to every Question. 4s. 6d.

School Arithmetic. 18th Edition. 1s. 6d. KEY, 4s. 6d.

"Eminently practical, well stored with examples of wider range and more varied character than are usually given in such books, and, its method of treatment being thoroughly inductive, it is pre-eminently the book for general use."—English Journal of Education.

TYPEWRITING * * *

Is now a recognised subject of Technical Education, and is growing in importance every day.

THE TYPEWRITER * * *

Used in the Classes is, in practically every case, THE

Remington Typewriter.

THE REASON IS CLEAR:

THE REMINGTON is every where the representative machine of its class, whether in commercial or professional work. It is important, therefore, for a pupil to learn the REMINGTON, inasmuch as his chance of employment will largely depend upon his being able to use it. Typewriting is not knowledge of a subject, but knowledge of a machine.

OUR * * * EMPLOYMENT BUREAU.

Through our Employment Bureau we can find positions for all competent shorthand-typists who apply to us. No charge of any kind is made. The demand for skilled knowledge of our machines is enormous.

"They represent the very farthest advance that has been made by public elementary school literature."

"Each letter, each line, each paragraph, stands forth with a distinctness which is in the highest degree helpful to teacher and to child."

"Simplicity, skill, and thoroughness, are the characteristic qualities of the series."

"The matter is skilfully graded, and it is throughout extremely interesting."

"The fact that these books have been produced under the supervision of Dr. Yates is a sufficient guarantee that the editorial work has been well done."

The Psychological Review, in an important paper "On the Condition of Fatigue in Reading," says—"The size of the type is the all-important condition of visual fatigue. The facility of reading is affected by the size and quality of type, by 'leading' or spacing, and the intensity and quality of the printing."

STUDENTSHIPS AND PRIZES.

A STUDENTSHIP of 25 guineas and other prizes are offered at each Matriculation; at Inter. Arts and Science, B.A. and B.Sc., Prizes of £10 each are offered to those who qualify for a University Scholarship, Exhibition, or Prize, and Prizes of £5 each to any who gain First Class Honours.

SPECIAL ADVANTAGES

Offered by University Correspondence College.

Tutors who have obtained the Highest Honours themselves, and who engage in no other work.

Specialists for each Subject.

Full Notes to each Lesson, most of which are printed in ordinary type.

Model Answers to each Test Paper for Revision just before the Examination.

Fees as low as compatible with efficiency, and reduced to a minimum by the economy effected by the large number of Students working with the College. Fees (which are strictly inclusive) are payable as arranged on joining.

Transference to next year's Class where the Student is unavoidably prevented from going up for the Examination originally intended, on payment of Registration Fee only.

The Fees for Preparation for the next Higher Examination are reduced to Students who pass an Examination as members of the College.

Any Student who, after working through the Ordinary Course, fails to pass any Examination leading up to B.A. or B.Sc., will be prepared without Fee for the next Examination.
